Good afternoon UKb'ers,

I have been following your reports on GHS, PHS, WHS and BHS and as some will know, have had very little success getting a shot of this merry little band of streakers! However, at last, albeit from a distance I have managed to snap a PHS which was just about in reach, but a tough one for the mobile... 🙄

So here it is, warts and all! I believe it is referred to as a 'record shot' when it is so sub-standard!

PHS

Not brilliant, I admit, but it does take my tally up to 43 UK species, so I am particularly chuffed! Next up is to try and snap the WHS which seems to be relatively abundant! Wish me luck!

Flutter on!

You're not alone, CJB. I've been chasing Purple Hairstreaks for three years now and all bar two of my photos have effectively been 'record' shots. 🙄
