

Rogerdodge

by Rogerdodge, 26-May-14 05:44 PM GMT

Well – I guess it is about time I started a personal "Diary".

Today I visited Hares Down on the southern fringe of Exmoor. It is a beautiful chunk of Culm grassland cruelly bisected by the North Devon link road about 25 years ago http://www.streetmap.co.uk/map.srf?x=28 ... 21110&lm=0 The arrow marks the best area.

It is ESSENTIAL to wear wellies – really tricky walking amongst the boggy tussocks!

The Marsh Frits have done really well this year. I didn't expect to see any at all – a bit early I thought.

However, in a few hours I saw at least 20 individuals, and a few posed very nicely for my camera.

Luckily the weather stayed fairly dry for the day, and the rain only started after I left the site.

I drew a blank at my local Heath Frit site – but it would have been REALLY early if they had been there – another week or so to go.

Roger Harding

Re: Rogerdodge

by Neil Hulme, 26-May-14 05:48 PM GMT

"Well - I guess it is about time I started a personal "Diary"."

About time too! 😊

That second shot's a blinder!

BWs, Neil

Re: Rogerdodge

by Katrina, 26-May-14 05:51 PM GMT

Gorgeous photos!

Re: Rogerdodge

by Susie, 26-May-14 05:55 PM GMT

Marvellous stuff 😊

Re: Rogerdodge

by Jack Harrison, 26-May-14 08:14 PM GMT

Neil:

That second shot's a blinder!

Courtesy Citizen Kane? 😊

Jack

Re: Rogerdodge

by Chris Jackson, 26-May-14 08:51 PM GMT

Roger, your last photo from Mon May 26, 2014 4:44 pm is very artistic.
Chris.

Re: Rogerdodge

by Pauline, 26-May-14 10:15 PM GMT

Some lovely shots there Roger – I'm looking forward to seeing more of your diary.

Re: Rogerdodge

by essexbuzzard, 26-May-14 10:30 PM GMT

Agreed–it's about flippin' time! 😊 With my Cornish roots,it will be interesting to see what's happening in north Devon.

Great Marsh Frit photo's,keep 'em coming.

Cheers,Mark.

Re: Rogerdodge

by Lee Hurrell, 26-May-14 11:17 PM GMT

I also like the second one, very nice, Roger! Look forward to your Heaths.

Best wishes,

Lee

Re: Rogerdodge

by Wurzel, 27-May-14 09:59 PM GMT

Looking forward to reading about your exploits Rog 😊 I really like the last shot, great composition 🍷 Looking forward to getting some inside info on the Heath Frits as I've never seen them before – perhaps this will be the year?

Have a goodun

Wurzel